

SUSTAINABLE PLANNING IN POLO, ILLINOIS

An Applied Thesis Project

Presented to the Department of Geography

Western Illinois University

by

David M. Snedeker

June 20, 2002

Abstract

Economic hardship, increasing federal and state mandates, and exurban development, among other issues, have complicated matters for rural communities. A result of that is a loss of small towns and rural areas. This is a result of a number of factors plans to better manage land use and economic resources. Polo, a community in

