

An Abstract of

Community Development Projects

Project No. 400

Development of Community

Development of Community

100%

Community Development Projects

Community Development Projects

Community Development Projects

Community Development Projects

Abstract

A common problem with planning documents is that they do not represent the interest of stakeholders in the community. When stakeholders are not involved in the planning process, the goals and tasks stated in planning documents are often not supported and implemented by the community.

This applied thesis explains the use of photo elicitation as a tool to facilitate